Information about the Service

Naked DSL is a fixed broadband service carried over the Telstra copper network, giving you the same speed as Standard DSL without the need for an active landline number, however it still requires your premises to be fitted with a standard (RJ11) telephone wall socket. An ADSL modem is also required and can be purchased directly from Amnet at additional cost. Naked DSL is typically delivered in around 8-10 business days and requires a 3rd party technician to connect the service to your premises. Customers must be in attendance to allow access to points of connectivity. Please note that monitored alarms, faxes, digital pay TV and any other services requiring a dial tone are not compatible with Naked DSL.

Minimum Term

Amnet offers contracts that include no minimum term, a 12 months minimum term and a 24 months minimum term. 24 month and 12 month contracts are subject to the cancellation fee outlined in the Contracts Table should cancellation take place within the contracted period. All terms require a minimum 30 days notice for cancellation.
